Introduction and Background

Grants are becoming an increasing part of the federal government's process for advancing new federal policies and billions of dollars in federal grants are awarded throughout the country every year. Federal grants are awarded to fund projects that provide public services, stimulate the economy, and benefit the general public. According to data collected by the Office of the New York State Comptroller, the federal government allocated nearly $670 billion in federal grants to states and Washington, D.C. in 2017, on the basis of formulas or through a competitive process. Of that, California received over $100 billion, or 15 percent, of total federal grant funding dollars.¹

While California receives far fewer federal dollars per capita than the majority of states, California does fare well in federal grant funding. Table 1 provides an overview of federal government expenditures received versus state taxes paid. In 2017, California received 6.87 percent less per capita than the national average, while paying 14.86 percent more in taxes per capita compared to other states. The only area where California received more funding than the national average was in the area of grants, receiving nearly 24 percent more in grant funding per capita.

Assembly Bill 1348 (Irwin, Chapter 444, Statutes of 2016)², authorized the State Clearinghouse, located within the Governor's Office of Planning and Research (OPR), to establish a Federal Grant Administrator to serve as a primary point of contact for information on federal grants related to community, economic, and local development. Several states, including Arizona, Maryland, Massachusetts, Nevada, and Rhode Island, have already created a Federal Grant Office to maximize their state's federal grant opportunities. These offices work to remove federal grant administration hurdles by providing grant support, such as identifying funding opportunities, developing collaborations, coordinating grant activities with multiple stakeholders, and tracking and organizing data.³ Even small improvements in the cumbersome process of identifying, tracking, applying and competing, and spending federal grant dollars can mean large returns for California.⁴

As part of its duties, the Federal Grant Administrator prepares a summary of federal grant funding that identifies and analyzes performance metrics for the funding year. The statute states that:

“On or before January 1, 2018, and annually thereafter, the Federal Grant Administrator shall prepare a summary of federal grant funding to the state that includes, but is not limited to, all of the following performance metrics:

- (1) Number of federal grants awarded to the state during the three years prior to the establishment of the Federal Grant Administrator and during the report year.
- (2) Number of completed federal grant applications submitted by the state during the report year.
- (3) Total federal dollars received by the state through federal grants during the report year.
- (4) Total federal grant dollars expended by the state during the report year.
- (5) Total federal grant dollars received in the state by school districts and local governments during the report year.
- (6) Number of training sessions hosted by the Federal Grant Administrator and attendance at those events during the report year.
- (7) Other relevant information regarding federal grant activities within the state during the report year, as determined by the federal grant administrator.”⁵

This year the Federal Grant Administrator is publishing the Summary of Federal Grant Funding to the State of California Update. This summary is California’s second annual report, but rather than report on 2018, this summary will provide a revision to the 2017 report. For this report and future reports, the “report year” will be defined as the fiscal year that precedes the end of a calendar year. For example, on January 1, 2020, the summary’s report year will be fiscal year 2017-18; on January 1, 2021, the summary’s report year will be fiscal year 2018-19. As such, on January 1, 2019, the report year covered will be 2016-17.

This is a change from the approach taken last year because of the limited amount of data that was available from the federal tracking systems and state agencies. The second summary report has benefitted from the establishment of a statewide network of individuals who serve as a point-of-contact for federal grant information. The Federal Grant Administrator worked with the newly established network, the California Department of Finance, the California State Controller’s Office, agencies from other states, and the federal spending website, USAspending.gov, to understand where to find data and how to use it. Based on various reporting requirements, data becomes available at different times in the year. For example, information used to develop this report includes data from the Federal Audit Clearinghouse, which posts audit reports for the State of California in March of the year that follows the end of the state fiscal year. This summary also incorporates federal budget data from the Office of the New York State Comptroller, which is published in October of the year that follows the end of the state fiscal year. These are sources of accurate information, which will continue to provide useful data for future reports.

Federal Grants Awarded and Dollars Received

In 2017, California received over $100 billion in federal dollars through 31,599 grants. These funds went to the state government, as well as school districts, local government, special districts, institutions of higher education, nonprofit organizations, foundations, or private businesses.

Figure 1 documents the number of federal grants awarded to entities within California, as well as the total federal dollars received, during the three years prior to the establishment of the Federal Grant Administrator and during the reporting year.

According to USAspending.gov, in 2014, 24,724 federal grants were awarded to California state and local government agencies, nonprofit organizations, foundations, and institutions of higher education, totaling over $71 billion. California federal grant awards steadily increased in 2015 and 2016, with 26,426 and 27,930 federal grants awarded to California, respectively. Federal grant dollars received in those years also increased to over $79 billion and $92 billion.

Table 2 below shows federal grant dollars distributed to California by the federal agencies that awarded the dollars. As can be seen in the table, each year the Department of Health and Human Services awards, by far, the most federal grant dollars to California.

The federal government’s grant tracking web tool, USAspending.gov, has undergone ongoing maintenance to become more transparent and user friendly. Changes to improve data quality have occurred on a rolling basis, which has caused the information reported to change from day-to-day. This has created difficulty in determining what the most accurate information is.

An example of uncertain data can be seen in Table 3. Table 3 displays 2014-2017 federal grant awards by business type, such as state government, local government, special districts, school districts, and other entity types. Data in the table incorrectly shows that in multiple years, not only did cities or special districts not receive federal grant funding, but those entities received negative funds; over 94 percent of federal grant dollars are not associated with any business type and are categorized in an “other/blanks” category. Additionally, when comparing the federal grant award totals in Figure 1 and Table 2 to the totals in Table 3, the information does not match exactly. Figure 1 and Table 2 represent the summary information displayed on USAspending.gov, whereas, Table 3 represents the data available for download on the website.

As such, a different approach was taken to better understand how much and what type of federal dollars were received by California’s school districts and local governments in 2017. The methodology for determining this information is discussed in the next section.

School Districts and Local Governments

School Districts

According to the California Department of Education, the Los Angeles Unified School District (LAUSD) was the California school district awarded the most federal dollars in 2017. Of those LAUSD awards, 97.8 percent of the federal funding came from the U.S. Department of Education (ED) or the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

Table 4 shows the ten largest federal awards to LAUSD. For a complete list, please refer to Appendix A.

Using LAUSD’s data as a reference point, the Federal Grant Administrator analyzed ED and USDA programs to conclude what money is awarded to K-12 school districts throughout California.

Table 5 shows the federal dollars awarded to elementary and secondary level programs in California from ED.⁶ In total, California received over $4 billion in 2017.

Please note that for USDA data, the dollars are represented as funds expended, rather than funds received. This is a slight difference to the ED presented in Table 5. While not an apples-to-apples comparison, the data does give an idea of the amount of federal dollars coming into California's schools and the programs that are funded.

Local Governments (Counties, Cities, and Special Districts)

For local governments, the Federal Grant Administrator used California State Controller’s Office (SCO) data⁷ to determine the federal dollars distributed to counties, cities, and special districts. While SCO provides such information, the data does not indicate that the federal dollars received are solely in the form of federal grants. The examples presented in this section try to show the types of programs that are receiving federal dollars in California cities, counties, and special districts to better distinguish the between the different types of funding.

Table 7 shows the amount of federal dollars received in fiscal year 2016-17.

Federal Grant Applications Submitted

The Federal Grant Administrator worked with the point-of-contact network to determine the number of federal grant applications submitted for FY 2016-17. Table 14 shows the number of applications and the number of awards.

It is important to note that the numbers listed in Table 14 are only from the State of California. They do not represent applications submitted by an entity that is not part of the state government (i.e. counties, cities, special districts, school districts). Additionally, these numbers were self-reported by each state department or agency in California. Some departments may not have tracked application information in the past, or were unresponsive to this exercise.

To view the complete list of federal grant applications, by department, please refer to Appendix E.

Federal Grant Dollars Expended

“In accordance with the Single Audit Act of 1984 (which was amended in 1996) and the [Office of Management and Budget] OMB’s Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards (Uniform Guidance), non-federal entities are required to track federal funds awarded to recipients and pass-through recipients each year.”⁸ The California Department of Finance, on behalf of the California state government, is responsible for collecting federal expenditure information each year from state departments and agencies that received federal dollars.

For purposes of the Single Audit process, the fiscal year reporting period ends on June 30. As such, the 2017 reporting period ended on June 30, 2017. The Department of Finance collects federal program expenditure information from all relevant state agencies by the end of August. Following, the California State Auditor, as an independent audit organization, conducts the Single Audit and submits its findings to the Federal Audit Clearinghouse in March 2018 (nine months after the June 30, 2017 end date).

As part of the Single Audit Report, the Schedule of Expenditures of Federal Awards (SEFA) is a list of the state’s federal program expenditures. Table 15 shows the total dollar value for federal expenditures made by the State government in 2017, and the three prior years, 2016, 2015, and 2014.

This data is collected and compiled on the same schedule each year. The June 30, 2018 data will be issued in March 2019, and a Federal Compliance Audit Report will follow. Thus, report year 2018 for this annual summary will be published in the January 1, 2019 report.

Table 16 shows the State of California’s expenditures by federal program. While the ten highest amounts are represented for 2017 in Table 16, a complete list is available in Appendix F.

State government expenditures represent only a piece, albeit a large piece, of California's total federal grant expenditures. Federal grant awards made directly to local governments, special districts, institutions of higher education, nonprofit organizations, foundations, or private businesses are not reflected in the tables presented above. For future reports, the Federal Grant Administrator will seek to report on federal grant expenditures made in California, beyond state government entities.

Training Sessions and Federal Grant Administrator Activities

Training Sessions

A discussion of training is provided below and describes training conducted since the Federal Grant Administrator was established, not just the fiscal year 2016-2017 report year time period. The Federal Grant Administrator began performing duties in October 2017, after the conclusion of fiscal year 2016-2017. Therefore, no training sessions took place during the 2016-2017 report year.

In September 2018, the Federal Grant Administrator facilitated the provision of a GoToWebinar training titled How to Limit Audit Findings. Rebecca Field, a Certified Public Accountant, of CliftonLarsonAllen LLP donated her time to conduct the training for federal grant recipients in California, including state agencies, local government agencies, state controlled institutions of higher education, exempt organizations, etc. The training discussed common audit findings, how to avoid them, and best practices for managing federal grant agreements.

The training was a webinar with 165 registrants and 100 attendees to the live session. Following the training, a link to the webinar recording was posted on OPR's website, and an additional 28 registrants viewed the webinar after the live session was given.

The Federal Grant Administrator continues to solicit feedback from the point-of-contact network for federal grant related topics of interest for future training sessions. The Federal Grant Administrator has received interest in expanding the audit training series to meet the needs of local city and county agency recipients.

Establishment of a federal grant network in California

Per AB 1348, the Federal Grant Administrator is establishing a network of individuals, statewide, "who serve as [the] point of contact for federal grant opportunities, including, but not limited to, individuals in local governments, special districts, institutions of higher education, nonprofit organizations, and foundations."

In upcoming report years, the Federal Grant Administrator will work to assist representatives from state and local government and other interested parties to apply for and manage federal grants. This includes facilitating the provision of in-person and online training for interested entities to "encourage and improve the ability to pursue and manage federal grants."⁹ The Federal Grant Administrator will also seek out targeted and specialized trainings hosted by the federal government, and inform relevant parties of the statewide network.

Federal grant resources for the OPR website

The Federal Grant Administrator will also "develop and maintain information on the Office of Planning and Research's Internet Web Site related to new federal grant opportunities, grant management best practices, and other resources to support the ability of state and local governments and nonprofit organizations to apply and manage federal grants."¹⁰ The federal grant resource web page will provide materials that will assist organizations that are interested in pursuing federal grant opportunities and award dollars. The website will also be used to disseminate accurate data and display updates on available trainings.

Additionally, in relation to State government federal grant activities, a new bill, AB 2252, was enacted in September 2018. This bill requires the California State Library, on or before July 1, 2020, to establish a centralized web portal for state-administered grant opportunities. The bill requires state agencies to register every grant solicitation prior to beginning the awarding process and to accept electronic grant applications. The California State Library will also produce an annual report, relating to the effectiveness of the web portal.

Other Relevant Federal Grant Activities

There are four types of federal grants that California is eligible for: formula grants, project grants, block grants, and cooperative agreements. Descriptions of these types of grants and examples of California programs that have received these types of grants are described below.

Table 18 shows a breakdown of federal fiscal year 2014, 2015, 2016, and 2017 grant dollars received in California by grant type. Totals in Table 18 match totals in Table 3.

Block grants

A block grant is typically awarded by the federal government to a state government and generally allow for more autonomy and flexibility to the states to decide how to implement a grant program. “States may use the block grant funding to establish a program or to make sub-awards to local organizations to provide the services within their region. As long as the legislatively defined purpose and parameters are met, the primary block grant recipients may elect how to utilize the funding.”¹¹

An example of a block grant is the Specialty Crop Block Grant Program (SCBGP) administered by the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) and awarded to the California Department of Food and Agriculture (CDFA). The purpose of the SCBGP “is to solely enhance the competitiveness of specialty crops”, such as fruit and vegetables. In 2017, CDFA was awarded $22.3 million in SCBGP funding, which they further sub-awarded to local organizations in a competitive solicitation to fund 72 projects.¹²

Formula grants

A formula grant is a grant awarded to state governments based on statistical criteria for specific types of work. Legislation directs who is eligible for the grant, what criteria must be met, and the amount of funds to be disbursed. Formula grants are different than other grants, as they are noncompetitive. Funds must be awarded based on the formula set out in legislation.

Medi-Cal is a formula grant, funded under the federal government’s Medicaid program. The Medicaid program is jointly funded by the federal government and states, with the federal government providing matching funds to state governments for activities that fall within Medicaid coverage. A formula, called the Federal Medical Assistance Percentage (FMAP), is used to determine the amount of federal funds

¹¹ Grants.gov, <https://blog.grants.gov/2017/05/23/what-is-a-block-grant-updated/>.

¹² California Agriculture Leads Nation in Funding For Specialty Crops, California Department of Food and Agriculture. https://www.cdfa.ca.gov/egov/Press_Releases/Press_Release.asp?PRnum=16-042.

each state receives for Medicaid assistance.¹³ The FMAP varies by state based on criteria, such as per capita income; however, so long as the regulations are followed and the services are provided, all states will receive the funds allocated in the formula.¹⁴ In 2017, California received approximately $67 billion federal dollars for Medi-Cal, which funded two-thirds of program costs based on the FMAP formula.¹⁵

Project grants

A project grant is a tool of the federal government to fund ideas and projects that provide public services, stimulate the economy, and benefit the general public. “[Project] grants can be awarded for a wide-variety of activities, such as innovative research, recovery initiatives, infrastructure building, or any of the other of hundreds of funding programs in the Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance (CFDA).”¹⁶ Project grant programs typically originate from laws and then are administered by the appropriate federal agency. Awards resulting from project grant programs are discretionary grants, meaning that the awardees are selected competitively based on a set of published evaluation criteria defining merit and eligibility. Once a grant is awarded, the federal government allows the awardee to complete the project without substantial involvement (unlike a cooperative agreement described later). Competitive federal grants for purposes such as research, implementation of education reforms, or transportation projects are a growing share of the national economy.

An example of a project grant is Head Start, a federal program to prepare low-income children from birth to age five for school.¹⁷ Funding is provided for enhancing cognitive skills, and to support a learning environment that supports children’s growth in areas such as language, literacy, social and emotional development.¹⁸ Head Start grants in California totaled over $1 billion in 2017.¹⁹

Cooperative agreements

A cooperative agreement is a grant in which the federal awarding agency or pass-through entity works together with a non-federal entity recipient to conduct research in a highly specialized area.²⁰

For example, the National Institutes of Health (NIH) entered into a seven year cooperative agreement with the Scripps Research Institute in La Jolla, California to establish the Center for HIV/AIDS Vaccine Immunology and Immunogen Discovery. NIH is supporting a coordinated, multi-disciplinary team of researchers to “accelerate the development of a preventative HIV vaccine through state-of-the art technologies and advanced knowledge.”²¹ This agreement receives $31 million per year for the seven year project term.²²
